

MEASURES ARE BEING RUSHED

Both Senate And House Get Down To Hard Work On Clearing Up The Docket.

CIRCUIT COURT BILL IS WITHDRAWN

Elver Sterilization Measure Passes The Assembly--Wisconsin River Bill Is Held Over Until Thursday.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Madison, Wis., May 21.—A tense moment occurred in the senate this morning when Senator Brazeau raised an objection to the request by Senator Burns, that the Wisconsin river improvement bill be laid over until Thursday. It seemed that the friends of the measure were determined to force a vote on it at once and that had feeling might be engendered.
Senator Burns declared he hoped the friends of the bill would adhere to their rush tactics, because if they did the measure would assuredly meet its deserved fate in the assembly.
Senator Brazeau finally withdrew his objections, in order to allow Senator Burns to make further investigation of the questions of constitutionality involved.
The constitutional amendment resolution by Senator Whitehead, proposing to abolish the present system of 18 circuit courts, and replace it with a system of four circuits of several judges in each, was withdrawn by its author by unanimous consent. This proposal has the approval of many leading lawyers, but the change involved is so radical that it was thought best not to press it at this time.
Indefinite postponement was ordered on the university bill asking for an annual appropriation of $60,000 for university extension work.
The assembly bill to create office of state fire marshal was concurred in after the adoption of an amendment to make it clear that the state should not be put to any expense. The expense of the new department is to be born by a tax on the fire insurance premiums.
The assembly passed the Elver sterilization bill by a vote of 36 to 24, forty members being absent. The opponents of the bill put up the best arguments they have made this session.
The bill to make mental anguish, caused by the delay of a telegram, ground for recovery of damages was concurred in.

ADJOURNED MEET
OF THE COUNCIL

"TALK VS. ACTION," A ROARING
 "STINGY SIDEWALK" FARCE, ENACTED.

ACADEMY ST. ASSESSMENT

Including the Original Levies Against the C. M. & St. P. Co. Approved in Toto—Other Business of Session.

After a week's delay during which time the remonstrances of the C. M. & St. P. Ry. Co., over the assessment of certain benefits against a portion of its property north of the depot were investigated by the street assessment and highway committees, the matter of the improvement of that portion of North Academy street situated between the West Bluff and Racine street intersections by the laying of macadam and cement curbing,
 came up for final action before the adjourned meeting of the city council last evening. No changes had been made in the original report, the three levies of $237.60, $118.80, and $59.46 against the St. Paul being allowed to stand. A resolution adopting the report in toto was introduced by Alderman Sheridan and passed by unanimous vote.

The street assessment committee also reported that after withholding twenty-five per cent, the following sums were due Harding & Nelson, sewer contractors: $2,500 for work in District 14, $840 for work in District
 15, and $75 for work in District 13.
 The city clerk was directed to draw orders on the city treasurer for the amounts, payable from the various funds.

A resolution directing the same committee, to take the preliminary steps toward the improvement of that portion of East street north lying between E. Milwaukee street and Prospect avenue by the laying of gutters and curbing, was introduced by Ald.
 Buchholz and passed. The action was taken in response to a petition presented to the City Fathers and the work will be done at the expense of the real estate benefited.

On recommendation of the fire and water committee the application of the owner of a confectionary stand on East Milwaukee street for permission to build a 7x8 frame pop-corn stand was granted. Proposals for sprinkling the streets, submitted at the previous session, were accepted. Bonds of the Recorder-Printing Co. were approved. The removal of a building on Washington street to lot 36 of Lovejoy's addition on Linden avenue was authorized. A statement of $281.
 64 due for shrubbery for the city parks was referred to the finance committee.

Notice was filed by Romaine Holdredge to the effect that the party open gutter on the south side of Racine street between Main street and the river was in a condition to do great damage to the property of the undersigned, lot 15, in event of a heavy storm, and that the city would be held liable for all damages by undermining, etc. The notice was placed on file.

An order introduced by Ald. O'Hara, granting permission to the owners of property on the portion of Pease's Court lying between the Bluff and Cornelia street intersections, to build 4½-foot walks and instructing the city engineer to file a curb and walk line, was passed without opposition.
 But there were murmurs when the passage of this order was followed by another granting the same permission to the owners of land on the south side of Hyatt street between Milton and Prairie avenues.

Ald. Clark said that he would be glad to see a stop put to these petitions for narrow walks. Ald. Merritt said that he was opposed to 4-foot walks under any conditions and discouraged 4½-foot walks in his ward except in cases where there were fine old trees seven or eight feet from the property line. It was the talk last fall that "we were going to have a city of 20,000 right away" and the buildings of these miserable narrow walks ought to stop right now. Ald.
 Brown wished that the standard might be fixed so that there would be no chance for variation. It was all nonsense to break up uniformity on a street in order to save some berry bush or little bit of dirty hedge.
 On a 66-foot walk built under instead of up to the standard width, a property owner would save perhaps $6.
 It was a pennywise policy to so economize on improvements, for which a man had to pay but once, provided he died in reasonable season. After a momentary silence Mayor Heddles asked, if there was any more light to be shed on the subject and Ald. Buch-holz exclaimed: "It's too late for light now—you have spoiled one of my best streets with these undersized sidewalks!" Ald. Brown again: "If you'll vote down all the 4-foot walk propositions I bring in I'll be much obliged." Ald. O'Hara: "There are some places which do not need five-foot walks." Then the vote was called for and Ald. Brown begged to be excused from voting. Ald. Merritt suggested that the matter be laid over until the next meeting, but Ald.

 Buchholz said that the material for building the walks was on the ground and the property owners were anxious to begin building at once.

SO THE ORDER AUTHORIZING
 THE DWAIVED AND SHRUNKEN
 WALK WAS PASSED, ALL VOTING
 "AYE."

The city engineer was directed to file a sidewalk grade for the south side of Prospect avenue from Bluff to Wisconsin street and the street commissioner was directed to clean and deepen the gutter on St. Mary's avenue between Hickory street and the C. & N. W. tracks.

Then Ald. Sheldon presented a petition from property-owners on Bennett street, asking for permission to build 4-foot walks, at the same time calling attention to the fact that there is no outlet to the east end of the thoroughfare and that it was seldom used except by residents.

Alderman Brown, amid some laughter, arose and said that while he was opposed to 4-foot walks, if ever there was a place where they should be permitted it was in the place designated by this petition. Aldermen Brown and O'Hara voted in favor of granting the petition and the other seven present, including Ald. Sheldon who introduced the petition, voted it down. Ald. Dulin was absent from the session.

OIL MEN COMPLAIN

AGAINST ST. PAUL

Pennsylvania and Other Roads Also Charged With Favoring Standard.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Washington, D. C., May 21.—The complaint of the National Petroleum Association against the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul, the Pennsylvania, the Ann Arbor and other railroads,
 alleging unreasonable and discriminating rates on petroleum and its products, came up for hearing today

before the Interstate Commerce Commission. The National Petroleum Association is an independent oil company and it alleges discrimination in favor of the Standard. In anticipation of the hearing today the railroads a week or so ago announced a big concession to the independent oil men, especially on the rate for the return of empty tank cars from Pacific coast. The readjustment of rates means that the Standard Oil Company will no longer enjoy an exclusive rate from central freight and trunk line association territories to the western coast.

Weak Women

To weak and ailing women, there is at least one way to help. But with that way, two treatments, must be combined. One is a tonic, the other is a cathartic, but both are important, both essential.
 Dr. Shoop's Night Cure is the tonic.

The former—Dr. Shoop's Night Cure—is a topical mucous membrane suppository remedy, while Dr.
 Shoop's Restorative is wholly an internal treatment. The Restorative reaches throughout the entire system, seeking the repair of all nerve,
 all tissue, and all blood ailments.

Dr. Shoop's Restorative, by its tonic action, uses nervous excitement, gives renewed vigor and ambition, builds up wasted tissues, bringing about renewed strength, vigor and health. It is a general tonic to the system. For positive local help, use as well

..Forty Years Ago..

Janesville Gazette, Tuesday, May 21, 1867.—Leg Broken.—A laborer named John Abbott, living in the Second Ward, met with quite a serious accident yesterday at Jefferson. He jumped off the wood train while in motion and broke his right leg below the knee. He was brought home and the limb set by Dr. Palmer. Abbott was run over by a car last fall and received a severe injury from which he is just recovering.

A Tight Thing on Rats.—We were shown today a new patent rat trap which appears to be a more effective exterminator of these annoying vermin than anything we have before noticed. It consists of a box with two compartments so contrived that when Mr. Rat steps in to secure the bait the doors close upon him and he finds himself a prisoner. But he soon finds a place of egress, entering which he shuts himself into a second compartment, which act of his opens the trap for a second customer, who follows the example of his illustrious predecessor, each one setting the trap for the one that comes after him. Mr. Warner of the town of Janesville has the right for this county.

The storm of last night and today has been one of the most severe we have ever experienced and it will be an agreeable surprise, if we do not hear of more damage and disaster on the lakes than have occurred in any one storm in years. The wind which by its has risen to a gale, has been accompanied by torrents of rain and by a depression of the mercury a little above the freezing point, rendering out door exposure extremely uncomfortable and most kinds of out door business entirely impracticable. The signs and windings have been the sport of the winds, and an unlucky gust demolished the smoke stack to our engine room doing some little damage in its fall.

Before The Footlights.

It would be hard indeed to find more swinging and characteristic music than will be heard in "The Tenderfoot," that great western operatic comedy, which will be the attraction at the Myers Theatre, Saturday, May 25, matinee and evening.

NATIONAL CIGAR STANDS

The Greatest Cigar Outlet

National Cigar Stands number two thousand, and each is conducted by a well-known local resident. But though the two thousand stands sell individually, they buy as one. The smoker profits by all the enormous economic advantages this has brought about.

This is the greatest retail cigar outlet in the world, and has all the power of the "biggest buyer" in any trade.

This wonderful concentration cuts out four intermediate profits, and brings cigars to the smoker nearer to cost of production than was heretofore thought possible.

This is well evidenced in

CUBA-ROMA

A Clear Havana Cigar at 5c.

Such a cigar has never before been retailed for less than 8 for 25c. This saving is noticed in all cigars sold by National Stands. Witness, among others:

Black and White: Seed and Havana as good as 5c.
College Days: Extra good domestic cigar, 6 for 25c.
Adad: A first-class domestic cigar, presenting 7 for 25c.
Stirling Castle: Fine, clear Havana cigar, 6c.
La Idalia: Havana Choice grade clear 3 for 25c and up

Pigeons as Messengers.

Pigeons were used as messengers as early as the Crusades, and at the siege of Acre and at Modena. Competitors at the Olympian games frequently released the swift little birds to inform their friends of victory, and pigeons were kept at Tyburn to carry information regarding the reprieve or execution of prisoners.

THE NEW WORLD

When the Jamestown colony was settled on the James river three hundred years ago Captain John Smith little dreamed that his meagre following of adventurers who had come to the new world seeking fortunes growing on trees was destined to become a mighty nation, a world power and a world provider. Our good Puritan forefathers who landed on the bleak New England coast, bartered with the Indians, starved and died, that they might be free to worship God, as they pleased, and did so for their own personal good and that of their descendants, but did not contemplate a great nation whose surface comprised seven per cent of the world's entire area. They little thought in less than three hundred years a nation, an English speaking people, would govern over a territory greater than all Europe. Despite its immensity in area it contains but a sixth of the world's population and is one-fourth less than Europe. No vision of these early settlers ever was conceived that gave their new homeland three of the fifteen largest cities of the world, New York being the world's second city in size. New York city has one-sixth as many native Germans as Berlin, it has nearly as many native Irishmen as Dublin, one-third as many native Italians as Rome, and one-eighth as many Russians as Moscow. In this country we are assimilating the best manhood of the earth, the best because the most daring and enterprising, and are creating a new race that is a composite of Anglo-Saxon and Latin.

America, the home of the free, the land of the brave, is today greater than even the Holy Roman Empire of antiquity, the realms of Alexander the Great, and the domains of the Medes or Persians, of Biblical days could be placed within the borders of the state of Texas. The immensity of the great country we live in and the diversity of the products is often forgotten. We fail to realize the great wealth that lies before us.

This is the richest nation of the globe and so rapidly has its wealth been accumulated that in two-thirds of a century it has doubled itself four times. The wealth is so great that if an equal division were possible every man, woman and child would have $1,310. It is so big that if there were twenty Rockefeller's instead of one, each with $500,000,000, there would still be enough left for a per capita of $1,200.

The United States has one-fifth of all the money of the world. Its inland trade every year equals the entire exports and imports of all the nations of the earth. Its foreign commerce amounts to 11 per cent of the world's international trade. Its exports are larger than those of any other country, and its imports are bigger than any other nation except Great Britain and Germany.

Its railroad mileage is 38 per cent of the world's aggregate mileage. Its length of telegraph lines is 18 per cent of the world's. It has over one-fifth of all the postoffices in the world and it sends through the mails more letters and printed matter than any other country. Its people are the greatest readers in the world. Its printed matter in the mails during a year is nearly twice that of Germany, nearly five times that of the United Kingdom and over one-third that of the whole world. It sends nearly one-third of all the letters, and with the exception of Great Britain the number of letters per capita is the greatest in the world.

The United States has more newspapers and other periodicals than any other nation and considerably more than one-third in all the world. It also leads in free education and in number of colleges and schools.

The United States produces one-fifth of all the gold, 38 per cent of all the coal, one-half of all the copper, 32 per cent of all the tobacco, more than one-fourth of all the wheat, more than three-fourths of all the cotton, and one-tenth of all the wool in the world. It has more than one-fifth of the cotton spindles. Thirty per cent of the amount of savings bank deposits in the world are in the United States, although only 8 per cent of the savings banks depositors are in this country.

The debt of the United States is less than 3 per cent of the aggregate national debts of all the nations. Our debt is one-fourth that of Great Britain, one-half that of Spain, less than one-fourth that of Russia, one-third that of Italy, less than one-third that of Germany, one-sixth that of France and less than those of Austria and Australia.

The cost of governing the world is nearly $9,000,000,000 a year, of which $750,000,000 or about 8 per cent represents the cost of governing the United States. The per capita expenditures of the United States government are less than those of the United Kingdom, of the British colonies, of Sweden, of Spain, of Russia, of Portugal, of Norway, of the Netherlands, of Italy, of Germany, of France, of Denmark, of Cuba, of Chili, of Belgium, and of Austria. We spend on our peace-war establishment less than Russia, Germany, Great Britain, or France.

As compared with fifty years ago, our population is three times as large, our wealth nearly seven times greater, our circulation of money six times as large, our bank clearings in New York fifteen times greater, the aggregate bank deposits in the whole country are thirty-seven times greater, the government receipts are eight times larger, the total commerce of the country is five times greater, the value of farms has increased five times, and the railroad mileage eleven times. In every ten-year period of our national progress the value of farm property, of farm products and of manufactured property and of manufactured products has shown a notable increase. In every five-year period except one there has been an expansion of the money circulation ranging from 12 to 33 per cent. In every five-year period there has been a notable growth in national bank deposits. In every five-year period there has been an increase in pig-iron production ranging from 5 to 230 per cent. In every five-year period except one there has been an increase in the volume of exports.

period of the world any nation that has developed as rapidly and with such power in all the attributes of civilization as the United States of America. Surely there is no room for any pessimism in such a country as this; certainly so far as the material progress is concerned. Every businessman can look forward with almost the assurance of an absolute certainty to an increase every five years in the productive enterprises of the country, however doubtful he may be as to the next six months or a year. There is likewise little room for pessimism as regards the political development of the country, for although every four years the government is subjected to the test of a vote by 15,000,000 citizens, yet our people have displayed a remarkable ability to govern themselves, and on the whole, one decade with another, a remarkable conservatism and support alike of the rights of property and of individual liberty.

"A FACT"

You can sit down in the dental chair of Dr. Richards without feeling like going into spasms because of fear of pain.

He makes it his business to avoid hurting you.

It's a common thing to hear a patient say upon getting out of his chair, "Doctor, I won't be so much afraid next time."

"You didn't hurt me a bit."

Another common occurrence in his office is to hear people come in and say, "Dr. Richards, your work for me has proven so satisfactory that I have recommended you and so to come to you for their work."

If you have Dr. Richards, do your dental work you will be sure of at least two things:

It will be good work.

His prices will be most reasonable.

Kline will express the association's appreciation of the team's work and Captain Leonard M. Mathews will respond.

dent of the association, will speak a few words of welcome to the players. General Secretary J. C. Kline will express the association's appreciation of the team's work and Captain Leonard M. Mathews will respond.

The accompanying picture shows the six men who played during the season and their manager, Fred Palmer. The following data on the different players will be found interesting:

Leonard M. Mathews—Captain, left forward, 3 ft. 6 in. in height, 151 lbs. weight, has played 11 years on team, probably fastest player in squad; cool, clever and accurate.

Bruce Kline—Right forward, 5 ft. 10 1/2 in. height, 174 pounds, first year on team, unusually accurate and exceptionally fast for a big man, scored most baskets, breaking association record of 17 held by Capt. Mathews by throwing 21 in single game.

Roy C. Palmer—Center, 5 ft. 11 in. height, 145 lbs., has also played eleven years; fast, cool and accurate passer, steady at all times and experienced thoroughly as a center he has more than held his own this year as in years past.

Geo. Sennett—Guard, 5 ft. 11 1/2 in. height, 155 lbs., has played six years; an exceptional player for running guard; tall, good defensive player, and a fine basket-thrower, and his work has gone far toward the success of the team.

Fred Wilkerson—Guard, 5 ft. 6 in. height, 151 lbs. weight, four years on team, clever defensive player as well as reliable forward if called upon to fill that position.

Wm. Langdon—Guard, 5 ft. 9 in. height, 151 lbs., one of the Y. M. C. A.'s best products at ground, always reliable, exceptionally strong on defense and speedy.

A Bold Step

To overcome the well-grounded and reasonable objections of the more intelligent to the use of secret, medicinal compounds, Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., some time ago, decided to make a bold departure from the usual course pursued by the makers of put-up medicines for domestic use, and so has published broadcast and openly to the whole world, a full and complete list of all the ingredients entering into the composition of his widely celebrated medicines. Thus he has taken his numerous patrons and patients into his full confidence. Thus too he has repudiated the old-fashioned, and long-continued, practice of making secret nostrums of doubtful merits, and made them remedies of known composition.

By this bold step Dr. Pierce has shown that his formulas are of such excellence that he is not afraid to subject them to the most searching scrutiny. Not only does the wrapper of every bottle of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, the famous medicine for weak stomach, torpid liver and biliousness, also that some of the ingredients contained in it, but a small book has been enclosed with each bottle, containing a full and complete list of all the ingredients composing it, and a small book has been enclosed with each bottle, containing a full and complete list of all the ingredients composing it, and a small book has been enclosed with each bottle, containing a full and complete list of all the ingredients composing it.

CHAPTER XXI.
THE three men were sitting at a small round dining table, from which everything except the dessert had been removed. Duncombe filled his own glass and passed around a decanter of port. Pelham and Spencer both helped themselves almost mechanically. A cloud of restraint had hung over the little party. Duncombe raised his glass and half emptied its contents. Then he set it down and leaned back in his chair.

"Well," he said, "I am ready for the inquisition. Go on, Andrew."

Pelham fingered his own glass nervously. He seemed to find his task no easy one.

"George," he said, "we are old friends. I want you to remember that I am in a hideous state of worry and nerves." He passed his hand over his forehead just above his eyes, as though they were hurting him. "I am not believing to you as a guest should to his host. I admit it freely. I have lost my temper more than once during the last twenty-four hours. I am sorry. Forgive me if you can, George."

"Willingly, Andrew," Duncombe answered. "I shall think no more about it."

"At the same time," Pelham continued, "there is another point to be considered. Have you been quite fair to me, George? Remember that Phyllis Poynton is the one person whose existence reconciles me to life. You had never even heard her name before I sent for you. You went abroad, like the good fellow you are, to find her for me. You assure me that you have discovered nothing. Let me put you upon your honor, George. Is this absolutely true?"

"I have discovered nothing about Phyllis Poynton," Duncombe declared quietly.

"About Miss Fielding, then?"

"Phyllis Poynton and Miss Fielding are two very different persons," Duncombe declared.

"That may be so," Pelham said, "although I find it hard to believe that God ever gave to two women voices so exactly similar. Yet if you are assured that this is so why not be altogether frank with me?"

"What have you to complain of?" Duncombe asked.

"Something has happened at Runtun House, in which Mr. Fielding and his daughter are concerned," Pelham continued. "I have heard all manner of strange rumors. This afternoon I distinctly heard the girl's voice in the lane outside. She was crying out as though in fear. A few minutes later I heard you speaking to some one in the library. Yet when I entered the room you would not answer me."

"Supposing I grant everything that you say, Andrew," Duncombe answered. "Supposing I admit that strange things have happened with regard to Mr. Fielding and his daughter which have resulted in their leaving Runtun House—even that she was there in the lane this afternoon—how does all this concern you?"

"Because," Pelham declared, striking the table with his fist, "I am not satisfied that the girl who has been staying at Runtun House and calling herself Miss Fielding is not in reality Phyllis Poynton."

Duncombe lit a cigarette and passed them round.

"Do you know what they are saying tonight of Mr. Fielding and his daughter?" he asked quietly.

"Not."

"That the one is a robber and the other an adventuress," Duncombe answered. "This much is certainly true. They have both left Runtun House at a moment's notice and without taking leave of their host and hostess. Remember, I never knew Phyllis Poynton. You did. Ask yourself whether she is the sort of young person to obtain hospitality under false pretenses and then abuse it to associate herself in a fraud with a self-confessed robber."

"The idea," Pelham said quietly, "is absurd."

"While we are on the subject," Spencer remarked, drawing the cigarettes toward him, "may I ask you a few questions, Mr. Pelham? For instance, had Miss Poynton any relations in France?"

"Not to my knowledge," Pelham answered. "I have known both her and her brother for a great many years, and I never heard either of them mention any."

"Why did she go to Paris, then?"

"To meet her brother."

"And why did he go abroad?"

"It was a whim, I think—just a desire to see a few foreign countries before he settled down to live the life of a country gentleman."

"You believe that he had no other reason?"

"I think I may go so far as to say that I am sure of it," Pelham answered.

"One more question," Spencer added, intervening. "But the question remained unasked. The butler had opened the dining room door and was announcing Lord Runtun."

Duncombe rose to his feet in surprise. For the moment a sudden fear drew the color from his cheeks. He looked apprehensively toward his unexpected visitor. Lord Runtun, however, showed no signs of any great discomposure. He was wearing his ordinary dinner clothes and in reply to Duncombe's first question assured him that he had dined.

"I will try a glass of your port, if I may, George," he declared. "Thanks."

The butler had wheeled a chair up to the table for him and left the room. Lord Runtun filled his glass and sent the decanter round. Then he turned toward Spencer, to whom he had just been introduced.

"Mr. Spencer," he said, "my visit to-night was mainly to you. I dare say you are aware that a somewhat unpleasant thing has happened at my house. My people tell me that you called there this morning and inquired for Mr. Fielding."

"Spencer nodded. "Quite true," he answered. "I called, but did not see him. He appears to have left somewhat hurriedly while I was waiting."

"You did not even catch a glimpse of him?"

"No."

"You know Mr. Fielding by sight, I presume?"

"I have seen him in Paris once or twice," Spencer answered.

"You will not think me impertinent for asking you these questions, I am sure," Lord Runtun continued apologetically. "But could you describe Mr. Fielding to me?"

"Certainly," Spencer answered. "He is tall and thin, wears glasses, has clean shaven, bald, and limped a little."

Lord Runtun nodded.

"Thank you," he said. "I presume that your visit this morning was one of courtesy. You are acquainted with Mr. Fielding?"

"I have not that pleasure," Spencer answered. "I am afraid I must confess that my visit was purely one of curiosity."

"Curiosity?" Lord Runtun repeated. "Exactly. Do you mind passing those excellent cigarettes of yours, Duncombe?"

Lord Runtun hesitated for a moment. He was conscious of a certain restraint in Spencer's answers. Suddenly he turned toward him.

"Mr. Spencer," he said, "may I ask if you are Mr. Jarvis Spencer of the Daily Messenger, the Mr. Spencer who was mentioned in connection with the investigations into the Lawson estates?"

Spencer nodded.

"Yes," he said. "I am that person."

"Then," Lord Runtun continued, "I want to tell you exactly what happened today in my house and to ask your advice. May I?"

"If our host has no objection," Spencer answered, glancing toward Pelham.

"None whatever," Duncombe answered, also glancing toward Pelham.

"There was a moment's silence. Pelham raised his head.

"If Lord Runtun desires it, I will withdraw," he said slowly. "At the same time I must confess that I, too, am interested in this matter. If Lord Runtun has no objection to my presence I should like to remain. My discretion goes without saying."

Duncombe moved uneasily in his chair. His eyes sought Spencer for guidance, but found his head averted. Lord Runtun raised his eyebrows slightly at what he considered a somewhat vulgar curiosity, but his reply was prompt.

"You are a friend of Duncombe's, Mr. Pelham," he said, "and that is enough. I have to ask not only you, but all three of you, to consider what I am going to tell you as absolutely confidential."

They all signified their assent. Lord Runtun continued:

"Mr. and Miss Fielding came to me with letters from my brother and with many convincing proofs of their identity. We none of us had the slightest suspicion concerning them. Their behavior was exactly what it should have been. Nothing about them excited remark in any way, except the unusual number of telegrams and telephone messages which Mr. Fielding was always receiving. That, however, was quite in accord with our ideas of an American business man and didn't seem to us in the least remarkable.

"The telegrams were delivered through a neighboring office," Spencer asked quietly.

"Yes," Lord Runtun answered, "but they were all in code. I happen to know that, because the postmaster brought the first one up himself and explained that he was afraid that he must have made some mistake, as the message was incomprehensible. Fielding only laughed and gave the man a sovereign. The message was absolutely correct, he declared. He told me afterward that whenever he was speculating he always coded his messages, and it seemed perfectly reasonable."

Spencer nodded.

"Just so," he murmured.

"This morning," Lord Runtun continued, "Mr. Fielding rather upset our plans. We were all to have spent the day at the duke's and dined there. There was a big shoot for the men, as you know. At breakfast time, however, Mr. Fielding announced that he had a man coming over with a motor car from Norwich for them to try and begged to be excused. So we had to go without them."

Luck of a Windfall.
The harsh forest laws of William the Conqueror are responsible for the meaning of good luck now so often associated with the term, windfall. Under the Norman it was a criminal offense to cut down timber in the forests; but as the peasants were allowed to gather whatever wood the wind had blown down they always hailed a storm as an omen of good luck.—Sunday Magazine.

WHY SO WEAK?

Kidney Troubles May be Sapping Your Life Away. Janesville People Have Learned This Fact.

When a healthy man or woman begins to run down without apparent cause, becomes weak, languid, depressed, suffers backache, headache, dizzy spells and urinary disorders, look to the kidneys for the cause of it all. Keep your well, Doan's Kidney Pills cure sick kidneys and keep them well. Here is Janesville testimony to prove it.

Mrs. Joseph Gower of 5 Park Ave., Janesville, Wis., says:

"Dull aching and pain in the loins often extended around to my sides and they seemed to be no relief from the misery it brought me. Sometimes I was actually unable to work, I used liniments and hot applications and tried various remedies but all the time I was growing worse. Finally I saw Doan's Kidney Pills recommended in our papers and got a box at the People's Drug Co. They gave me some relief almost instantly and in a few days after taking the first dose the backache and misery left me. I gained and since then have had no return of the trouble."

This cut shows a handsome style in a 'Sil-Kid Ladies' Pump, one of the favorites of the season, made up in a patent Corona Colt in turn and welt soles, correct for evening wear. (You can see this at $2.00, $2.50 and $3 at D. J. LUBY & CO'S.)

In this cut you see the famous "Tramp" last of the Sil-Kids, one of the most perfect-fitting styles for every summer day you can have. It comes in patent colt, tan calf, gun metal also in button. (Shown by D. J. LUBY & CO. at $2.50 and $3)

Here we have represented the beautiful Court Til of the Sil-Kid line with Spanish arch one of the all-round dressy things this season. In patent Colt only. (Shown complete by D. J. LUBY & CO. $2.00, 2.50 and $3.)

One of the most noticeable street styles today in New York is shown above—made up in gun metal, calf and patent colt, one of the Sil-Kid winners for comfort. (This is shown also with the full line by D. J. LUBY & CO. $2, $2.50, and $3.)

It is a long time since the attention of your correspondent has been called to a line of ladies' styles that possesses so much in detail as the SIL-KID. In all the exclusive shoe marts of this section the large retailers find it met with an enthusiastic demand. It is a line that has in a few seasons forged itself to the fore front and has surpassed everything in high-grade shoe making today.

Buy A Buggy With A Reputation Back of It

The name "ANDERSON" on a buggy means the same that the word "STERLING" does on a piece of silverware; its the best there is.

The ANDERSON

of Detroit is a buggy made of honest materials, by honest makers and sold at a fair, legitimate price. Its a "hard knock" buggy, one that will stand the rough usage that every rig must get sooner or later, and yet made with all the style and finish possible.

In addition to the ANDERSON, we carry the following well known makes:—THE STAYER, of Chicago; THE STUDEBAKER and THE RACINE. No matter what you wish to pay for a vehicle, we can furnish you with what you wish.

We have just received a new stock of the celebrated STOUGHTON WAGONS.
